Super Lekker Super Mooi

(fake leather, cotton, crumblefoam)

2017

By presenting itself as something that is primary and, in a way, very humane, a world-record-size donut challenges ideas that are often taken too seriously.

The donut confronts us with the silliness of life, at the same time it shows – and forces us to stare down – the abyss that is opened up by all human activity, be it known as high culture or popular culture. What is value? What is the essence or core of something? Does not the essence of things reside in the void?

Turning this piece of cake into a monumental object proposes a new kind of value: not the value of eternal truths or wisdom, but rather the value of temporary fun.

Yes, it is a donut. You can sit on it.

Nonovia

(cotton, leather and foam)

2014

Young people are postponing the moment of getting married as a social value. There is a growing number of population that decides to stay single permanently: this is the first time in history in which there is more singles than couples.

Nonovia is an anthropomorphic company device that allows you to enjoy the softness of a good hug without all the inconvenience that those bring.

Messless

(foam and polyurethane)

2016-2018

“Messless” is a furniture series created to encourage chaos at home. Due to its random organisation, it doesn’t enable the user to place things in an organised way.

From an early age, we are taught to “understand” chaos from order: clean our room, organise our clothes, and keep our things from lying around on the floor. The traces we leave over time in our homes are seen as chaotic, a mess. We, but mostly others, are not able to oversee the confusion that comes with losing something in a pile of unwashed clothes. By cleaning our room, the organisation of this confusion, we are actually erasing the traces of time in order to make everything seem as new as possible again.

Bitterballen donder op

(video)

2017

Bitterballen Donder Op is a mix of a good number of popular Dutch references. Taking inspiration in few known pop music videos and extrapolating them into the snack culture in order to make it reachable by the hand of Alarido Mongólico.

Mi vida

(video)

2017

The actions in the video are taken out of context even when we recognize them. Don't try to find a deeper meaning behind it. If we see a hole, we just want to fill it .

In the action of this video we can see, in first person, a hand that's having an strange and sexually violent action towards a few objects or unanimated elements like couches, walls, fences, vessels...a literal massive stuff finger blasting. This video is also for Alarido Mongolico.

“Joel says that this chandelier that evokes his memories of the golden age of mankind, the 2000s, was made for the hahas”

Jarrones de la Hostia

(foam and polyurethane)

2019

Among these pieces are the great foam rubber vases, one of the few existing examples of luxury pieces called “Fucking Awesome Vases” (Jarrones de la Hostia).

They are Fucking Awesome Vases because you can kick them! They are durable, bounce and fit your head inside!

Dogeminer L3+504mh

2021

What if we all had a crypto mine at home? Invited to reflect on the future of Generation Z, the Dogeminer L3+ 504mh takes the image of the shiba inu dog meme to create a sculpture that mines Dogecoin while powered on.

Piece exhibited at the CCCC Centro del Carmen de Cultura Contemporánea in Valencia during the exhibition “El Dormitorio”.

Truenito Mi Pequeño Toro

2020-2021

Truenito is one of the little bulls and represents the force of lightning. His full name is Trueno Celestial and he is the son of Rayito and Nieblina. Truenito is an exuberant, mischievous, flirtatious and brave but tender bull. He tends to see the bright side of things but when he gets sad, the brightness of his forehead goes out.

My Little Bull is a bullfighting training cart perfectly adapted for children's games, made of light and resistant materials, with the best conditions so that kids can move it easily, even withstanding possible jumps and falls. Its metal structure and inflatable wheel make it an all-terrain accessory for playing .

Truenito was made as part of the project "Suspiros de España" by Ernesto Artillo.
